

GEO Statement on Unauthorized Communication to Participants

on March 09, 2012

We understand that some of you may have received inappropriate and offensive material in the mail or through email that contained the logos for GEO and Philanthropy Northwest and a reference to our National Conference. This communication was not endorsed or authorized by either GEO or Philanthropy Northwest. There have been several similar episodes over a number of years that have been dealt with in conjunction with the Texas governor's office and court orders are in place to remove offending materials from the Internet. GEO is not formally involved in these legal matters or the ongoing situation, but has sought legal counsel in order to protect the privacy of members of our community and the quality of our brand. GEO adheres to a strict privacy policy and does not sell, rent or lend to anyone the personal information of its members, conference participants or registered website users. Please feel free to contact Danielle Yates (yates@geofunders.org or 202.355.9541) or J McCray (mccray@geofunders.org or 202.898.1823) if you should have any questions about GEO's policies.

GEO's Social Media Policy

We at GEO want our social media streams, including Facebook, Twitter and blog to serve as open forum for our members and community and encourage users to engage in discussions and debate. However, we want to cultivate a professional and safe online environment, so please keep comments and posts clean. GEO asks that users do not post any content that is obscene, defamatory, profane, libelous, threatening, harassing, abusive, hateful or embarrassing to any person or organization. Also, the appearance of external links does not constitute official endorsement on behalf of GEO or our members and posts that focus solely on promotion or solicitation for a particular organization, unrelated to GEO content, are discouraged. GEO reserves the right to delete or edit any comments that it considers inappropriate or unacceptable.
